

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

- In a switching system with improved message distributor in which a common internal bus is used in order to improve the transmission of messages between a switching network connecting unit, a coordination processor connecting unit and a signaling connecting unit are provided. In this way, loading on the coordination processor can be reduced and the system power of the switching system can be increased.
- 5